ROBIN GIVENS

INTERVIEW BY
CHAUNCE HAYDEN

As the new host of "Forgive or Forget," (now in it's second season, 4pm on channel UPN 9), Robin Givens is adding yet another exciting new venture to her already impressive list of accomplishments.

A native New Yorker, Givens and her younger sister were raised in Westchester, NY by their mother, who always encouraged her children's creativity and appreciation for the arts. When she was young, Robin began playing the violin but quickly decided it was not for her. She chose instead to channel her artistic energy through acting and, at the age of ten, she started acting classes at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City.

In 1980, at the young age of fifteen, Robin enrolled as a freshman at Sarah Lawrence College to study pre-med. By her junior year, however, Givens excitement about the idea of a career in acting intensified and she began taking her craft more seriously. The first step was regular auditions for day parts on the many soap operas then shooting in New York and she was offered roles on "The Guiding Light" and "Another World." She also landed a role on the highly popular "Cosby Show." As a result, she and comedian Bill Cosby forged a great friendship which would prove instrumental in Givens' career. To convience Robins' mother that she should allow her daughter a shot at acting, Cosby promised that if she didn't "make it" in two years he would personally pay for her education.

In 1986, three days after she arrived in Hollywood, Givins landed a part in the television movie "Hollywood Madam" with Faye Dunaway. At the same time she read for the role of "Darlene Marrimen" on the sitcom "Head of the Class"

METAL!!!!. Excuse me, I had to get that out of my system. It's been a while since I've used this column to promote one of my passions in life other than pissing you off. Heavy metal baby! Times are good for us old school metal heads. WSOU is back on the air after their unfortunate campus fire, WDHA has a great metal show on Saturday nights, and even 92.3 K-Rock has been playing songs like "Last In Line" by Dio, old Judas Priest, and even occasionally Accept. Even though bands like Korn and Limp Bizkit stay on my dial when they come on now (Either they became better songwriters or repetition makes ANYTHING sound good eventually) its still the old stuff that really does it for me. My brother in law returned my AC/DC "Let There Be Rock" cassette last week and I popped it in last Sunday and the song "Overdose" gave me goosebumps just like it did 20 years ago. AC/DC have a new cd but unfortunately if you have heard vocalist Brian Johnson on the single you hear his voice is shot. That's ok, we still have all that great old stuff.

The March Metal Meltdown is coming up Friday March 10 and Saturday March 11 at the South Jersey Expo Center in Pennsauken, N.J.. Three stages, over 100 bands. Metal bands! There's some great metal on the web. Check out www.burnthesun.com and www.harderbeat.com. Yeah, metal is back! Even our editor Chaunce Hayden broke down this week and interviewed a metal band this past Sunday. You can hear it in archives all this week on EYADA.com . And I thought Chaunce only liked The Clash. Every cool old metal cd from the eighties has been rereleased by Metal Blade (old Riot, Slayer, Armored Saint, etc.) Spit Fire (Twisted Sister, TNT, and Testament), Century Media (Exodus, Dark Angel, Crumbsuckers) and Nuclear Blast (Tons of great metal). Yup, old school is still cool.

the BARFLY

By Alan Tecchio

Lately I've been seeking out more unique types of beer to tantalize my palette. At a recent trip to The Palisades Center's Romano's Macaroni Grill, (yeah, I hated the name too, but found some dishes to be real tasty) I ordered up an Italian native: An ice cold bottle of Peroni Beer. It went perfectly with my pasta and although it had a light taste that bordered on bitter, I found myself quite desirous of another upon finishing the first. My girlfriend, who is clearly more sensible than I, prevented a potential post-lunch drunken shopping spree from ensuing. Thanks Chris!

Speaking of interesting, off-the-beaten-path brews... This one comes from a Cooperstown, New York brewery called Brewery Ommegang. Surprisingly enough, the Belgian-style Abbey Ale of theirs that I tried is called Ommegang too. (A little Earth humor there for ya-argh, argh) Served in a bottle that is not unlike a wine bottle in shape and size, this brew is no sissy. It clocks in at 8.5% alc/vol and after one I knew there was no way in hell I could do two and still be able to drive home. I advise buying this brew and taking it home to enjoy. That way, you don't need to worry about driving anywhere at all. (You still may not want to exceed two though! This stuff is wicked powerful and I don't care who you are, drinking to the point of getting sick sucks). Enough preaching...

Cresskill, NJ's American Roadhouse is hosting live music every Thursday night from 9PM to 1AM. This week on the 24th you can check out Straight Ahead featuring Donna Harris. Next week on March 2nd it's a name you should be familiar with if you're a regular reader of Steppin' Out: Peter Karp and The Roadshow. Call (201) 541-7575 for information or reservations.

Cheers go out to Fred, Tina, Shuana and the whole Dingo's Den crew in Clifton, NJ. I dropped in for a Dingombie the other night and came crawling out, I mean, left a couple of hours later. Pete from the band Holmes was there too, paying tribute to the great horizontal surface that is the American bar. If you like Zombies, you must try the bastard son of "the living dead from down under": The Dingombie. It's a real animal.

While seeking out new column related items I came across two cool little books: One on martinis and the other on beer. Look for info-bites from both right here in The Barfly from time to time. I'll leave you off with a thought from American writer Ambrose Bierce: Abstainer: A weak person who yields to the temptation of denying himself a pleasure. ■ which she also won. Since then she has appeared in numerous successful feature films ("Boomerang," "A Rage in Harlem," "Blankman," "Foreign Student"), made-for-television movies ("Women of Brewster Place," "Michael Jordan: An American Hero," "The Face," "On Wings of Fear") and sitcoms ("Sparks," "Courthouse," "Angel Street"). She recently wrapped the USA Networks original movie "Expendable" which is slated to air this spring.

You're Never Too Far From The Cadillac Bar!

Of course most know the downside to Givens remarkable life as well. The most noted was when Givens appeared on 60 minutes with Barbar Walters and stunned the world when she openly talked about her former husband, Mike Tyson's violent and dysfunctional behavior while Tyson sat by her side looking more then a little uncomfortable for all the world to see.

Givens is the single mother of two young sons and is an avid tennis player, reader and loves writing.

Chauncé Hayden: What was your first thought when you were asked to host "Forgive or Forget:?

Robin Givens: I wasn't asked to host "Forgive or Forget"!

Then how did you end up hosting the show?

(Laughs) Don't get me wrong, I would of loved to have been asked! I had just had my baby and I was thinking okay I have to meet with my agent because they wanted to see what I looked like and all that stuff. So I had lunch with my agent and manager and a bunch of other people and during the course of lunch it came up that some people were coming into town to audition for the "Forgive or Forget" show. But the people at the table who were talking about it weren't even talking to me! So I interrupted and said, "What do you mean? What are you talking about?" And they said, "Well Mother Love is leaving the show and they're looking for somebody to replace her." So I said, "What about me?" As it turned out there were five people coming to audition for it and I asked to be one of those people. I mean I wish it was a situation where they called me to host the show but it just didn't happen that way.

Were the people involved with the show surprised that you wanted to host a talk show?

Yeah, they were very surprised.

Now that I'm thinking about it I have to say I'm even surprised you wanted to do it. I mean you're an actress with a movie career. Why would you want to host a show like "Forgive or Forget"? It seems a bit of a detour from what you've been doing.

Actually, I've been looking to do it for sometime. About 8 or 9 years ago I had a deal with David Saufman and Quincey Jones. David Saufman produced the "Jenny Jones Show." And I had known Quincey for some time and he had done "The Fresh Prince" show and many other successful shows and he's very close to Oprah. Anyway he was looking to do another series with me. So I told David, well you do the "Jenny Jones Show," I'd love to do something like that! But it never worked out. And then most recently I had a deal at Imagine TV with Ron Howard and some of those guys who I had done "Boomerang" for. They wanted me to do a show called "Girlfriends." Which is like "The View" but a little bit more hip.

Sounds like a great idea what happened to that idea?

We did a great pilot but it just never worked out. So I've been wanting to host a television talk show for sometime so that the time it came up at lunch I just yelled, "What about me!"

But what's the interest in hosting a show like "Forgive or Forget"?

First of all I had been acting for so long. And I love acting but I find hosting a television talk show so challenging because it's so brand new. It's such a new thing for me to do. Also, I'm a huge fan of Oprah Winfrey's as well. So I'm sure that's part of the reason. And I really believe that the human experience, no matter what race or religion or social economic status you have, there is a certain thing about human beings that tie us all together. Not to mention I really like talking about certain issues that I think we all have in common. I think there are certain things that happen in real life that you just can't write into a script.

There's been some talk that the next Oprah will be Tyra Banks. But why not you?

Well I don't know exactly how that works. I mean Oprah is such a legend in her own time. I am who I am and I'm just going to try to do the best I can. I just love dealing with certain issues. Oprah and I have spent many nights talking about life and now I would just like to do that on television.

What exactly is the focus of "Forgive or Forget" now that it's original host Mother Love is gone?

People ask me how has it changed. And I always say, "first of all, we're two different kinds of people Mother Love and I. But regardless the show is about issues that effect people's life.

Sounds like the standard daytime talk show.

Yes, but the thing that makes my show different from the others is that we're looking to resolve the issue if we can. That's very important to me. I want you to walk away with some answers or some resolution or some sense of beginning to make your life better. That's what my hope is.

Other shows like "Jenny Jones" or "Jerry Springer" often look to shock the viewer in order to draw huge ratings. Is "Forgive or Forget" going to get down and dirty as well?

I don't think so. But like I said, there are certain things that happen in people's lives that if you were to write it people would think you were just making it up. You know what I mean? I can't deny that on other shows that I am shocked and surprised by the stories. I've experienced that even here on my show. But unlike other shows, on my show I'm looking to resolve the problem. I want to make things better in that person's life beyond the hour that they're on the air. I don't want to exploit them.

Usually when a new talk show comes out the intention is to help people and be above board. But it seems as soon as the ratings dip the first reaction is to hit the panic button and become trashy.

Don't get me wrong. I feel like I'm a person in the audience except that I get to hold the mic. I'm really a talk show person. I actually watch talk shows! So when it's good to me then I know I had a good day. It's I'm standing there and I'm bored then I feel like people in the audience and people at home are bored to. So I don't want to be bored.

Do you watch the "The Jerry Springer Show"?

Yes, I watch Jerry Springer. I sit there on the edge of my chair going, "Oh my God they're fighting!" I remember when I was doing "Sparks" and you couldn't find any of the guys. They were all watching Jerry Springer! So I understand that that kind of show is compelling to watch. There's nothing worse then being bored. I know I don't want to be bored! But I think we can have a good time but still have a sense of not sending my guests away all in an uproar and in a raucous.

Or in the case of "Jenny Jones" ...dead.

Exactly. You want the show to be a party. That's how I like it. I watch some talk shows that are down right boring.

For instance?

(Laughs)

Maury Povich?

Okay! But I don't want that to happen to my show. The show has to be exciting but at the same time I don't want my guests to leave feeling that I had used them. Do you know what I mean?

Let's talk about Mother Love. A few weeks ago she was a guest on the Howard Stern Show. However, during the interview you called in and she took a very hostile attitude with you. Did that surprise you?

Yes. I tried not to get involved in the whole thing. When the the transition happened I was in Mexico doing a movie. So I didn't get to hear or see anything. I was completely oblivious to everything. Then when I got home I was like, "Hey, what's going on?" I remember coming down stairs to go to work and the driver had the Howard Stern Show on. He panicked when I got in the car and started fumbling with the tuner saying, "I"m sorry, I'm sorry! I'll turn it off!" I was like, "No, leave it on!" Hey, it was either going to be me or someone else that was going to take her place. It was between me and six people.

But Mother Love really seems to not like you. Maybe it's because you're young and attractive?

I think it's very difficult for anybody to lose their job. And I think when you're asked to leave it's got to be painful to anyone. But in this business we all have experienced rejection.

I'm simply not black enough and no matter what, I'll never be white!

On Mother Love...

I think if she got me she would kill me. But I can run really fast!

MORSELS

By Mike Morse

Influenza. Even though it sounds like the name of one of Tony Soprano's goombahs ("Hey Tony, Sammy "The Bug" Influenza would like a meeting wit' you"), it is actually something much more menacing. I should know, because, all week, I've been suffering with a pounding headache, sore muscles, fever, chills, and complete exhaustion. I haven't had symptoms like this since I watched Kathi Lee Gifford's Christmas special last year.

I had successfully eluded the various colds, flus, and other nasty viruses that have been going around this season by doing what I do best: avoiding contact with humanity. Whenever I was in a social situation and saw a person about to sneeze, cough, or expel any unwanted bodily fluid or gas, I would run from the area screaming, "Disease be gone! Disease be gone!" As you can imagine, this did not make me very popular in these particular social settings, especially among the other churchgoers.

But somehow, despite my self-imposed quarantine, one of those evil little germs found its way into my respiratory system and began doing whatever is those evil little germs do to make me feel like I've been beaten all over my entire body with a sock full of ball bearings. Luckily, I made it to the drugstore yesterday and created a carefully measured combination of medicine that is guaranteed to make even the most flu-stricken individual feel better. For any fellow sufferer, here is the recipe:

8 ounces Robitussen PM
8 ounces Theraflu Cough and Cold
2 tablets (dissolved) Alka-Seltzer Plus Cold Medicine
jar Vicks Vapo-Rub
10 tablets Advil (crushed)
2 bottles Triaminic cough syrup
8 ounces Vicks Formula 44 D
1 bottle Nyquil
bottle Afrin nasal spray
1 liter tequila

Take first nine products on the list, dump in blender, mix. Dump contents into sink. Do shots of tequila until you don't notice the flu symptoms anymore. Repeat every three to four hours. Of course, if you're mixing this recipe for children under the age of eighteen, do not use tequila. Use blackberry brandy instead. It's much sweeter, so the kids will be much more willing to chug down the recommended dosage.

Well, look at that! Time for my next treatment. Having the flu isn't such a bad thing, after all. It's like Happy Hour without having to worry about the DWI. ■

THE SNOW WOMAN COMETH

Phil, that pesky Pennsylvanian groundhog, has predicted six more weeks of winter. That means if you—like myself—are one of the unlucky majority who is not wintering in the South or France or some other more desirable clime, than keeping warm is of top priority. And as many experts will assure you, a cozy body begins with toasty tootsies. And nothing keeps your feet warmer than those shaggy Abominable Snowman boots, which have suddenly come back into style. Maybe it's because it's been a long, hard winter, or maybe it's because walking around town with giant furry paws attached to your calves makes your thighs look so much slimmer. Whatever your reasoning, you can find the beastly boots at DDC Lab (180 Orchard Street, 212/375-1647) for $140. More than a pair of fluffy sweatsocks, but much less than a trip to the Bahamas.

MODEL WATCH....

Model of the moment Gisele Bundchen—she of the fabulously long legs and perfect pout, who became universally recognized after she won Vogue And VH1's Model of the Year Award—is behaving in a decidedly retro fashion. While many had speculated that the days of the bratty ubermodel were a thing of the past, Gisele was apparently determined to singlehandedly revive the naughty model rep at this month's Fashion Week. First, she threw a tantrum at the DKNY show because she couldn't find her personal limo and chauffeur. And at the Helmut Lang show, the Brazilian beauty stormed out—after her hair and make-up had already been done—because she didn't like the runway ensembles chosen for her. Well, what can these designers be thinking? After all, the poor girl only makes $20,000 a show.

That's just how it is. It's such a big part of what we do.

What would you say to Mother Love if she was with us right now?

I would say I think it's difficult for your disappointment to be somebody else's opportunity. But also, I feel that she was somebody before "Forgive or Forget" and that she'll go on and write or do another show or something that she probably can't even envision now. But I know she'll be doing something wonderful.

Would you have Mother Love on as a guest?

Yes! Of course.

I wonder if she would except your offer?

Ya think she would?

I don't know. However, maybe not right now.

I think I told her I would challenge her to a mud wrestling contest.

Who do you think would win?

I think if she got me she would kill me. But I can run really fast!

Plus she has more incentive to kick your ass. Usually the angry person always wins the fight.

Right, because your adrenalin is going.

At one point you had planned on becoming a doctor. In fact you were accepted to Harvard Medical school. Do you ever regret not pursing the medical field?

Actually, it was Harvard graduate school. Yes, I do regret it very much.

Why?

When I was younger I didn't realize that the world was such a segregated place. I think in show business the world is a very segregated place. I actually went to undergraduate school with Lauren Holly. She's a good friend of mine and we were roommates. We were acting together as a hobby. I don't think either one of us planned on acting to become our life at that time. We were like kids in a playground who got to play. But as we got older, somebody said, Okay she gets to go and play in the big playground and you have to stay here and watch. Ruby Dee said to me once, "For us in this business it's like going to the ocean and only being allowed a cup of it." And it's really true. I think in other aspects of life like education African American's are a little bit more on fair ground. It's a little less segregated to tell you the truth.

But don't you think the opportunities for African American's has improved from say 20 or even 10 years ago?

James Avery who I did "Sparks" with, who I just adore, said to me, "You don't want to do our movies and you can't do their movies!"

This may sound horrible. But do you find because you're very well spoken and beautiful that Hollywood feels you may not be black enough for the roles that are available to African Americans and not white enough for the roles that are available for white actresses?

You got it! You hit the nail right on the head. I was taught to better myself through education and all of a sudden the things my family was trying to instill in me doesn't apply for Hollywood. I'm simply not black enough and no matter what, I'll never be white!

How does that make you feel?

It makes me feel sad. There was definitely a certain sadness when I realized that I was stuck in no man's land. Then for a while I had no interest in acting. So for me getting a talk show, it's still entertainment and I get to think and talk about issues. I like that. Whereas, a lot of movies that I love I'm never going to be in! I'm never going to have the opportunity. And a lot of movies that I can be in I have no interest in being in.

Okay, before I let you go I have to ask. Did you see the Mike Tyson fight this past week?

No, I didn't.

Do you follow his career at all?

No, I can't say that I do.

No interest in Mike at all?

No. In fact I completely forgot he was even fighting this week to tell you the truth.

Hmmm?

I really did!

Last question. What is the most bizarre tabloid story you ever read about yourself?

They're all so bizarre! To tell you the truth I really try not to read the tabloids. I've read that I've dated people I've never met before and things like that. So I really try not to get involved. I wish I had a funny little story. But for me Chauncé, with everything that I've been through, a successful life became far more important to me then a successful career. I really wanted a successful good quality of life and I think sometimes the things that are written about you can affect your reality. It's not reality yet the tabloids can effect your reality if you let it in. So I try not to let it in. Does that make any sense?

"PLAY IT TO THE BONE"

Fighter Cesar Dominguez (Antonio Banderas), hangs out in an L.A. gym with his born-again pal Vince Boudreau (Woody Harrelson), another over-the-hill fighter. Then comes a phone call from Las Vegas: The two boxers on the undercard of Mike Tyson's title fight, to take place this very evening, have become extremely unavailable (one dead, one doped up), and the slimy promoters (Robert Wagner, Tom Sizemore) need two subs pronto. Fifty grand apiece. They have to be there tonight, so of course, they drive - a chance to take a trip in a hot car with Grace (Lolita Davidovich), Cesar's current squeeze and Vince's ex, and to turn this thing into a mini road/buddy flick. Then it's back to the hand we got dealt, which devolves, into an appallingly brutal slugfest. Cast: Antonio Banderas, Woody Harrelson, Lolita Davidovich, Tom Sizemore, Lucy Liu. Running time: 125 minutes. (Salm) Rated R. ★ 1/2

"ISN'T SHE GREAT"

The squirmy premise of this fawning, schmoozing movie is that Jacqueline Susann was made noble by her ambition and by being the people's choice, having campaigned for their favor on TV and book tours. Nathan Lane brings his roly-poly package to the role of Susann's husband, publicist and No. 1 fan, Irving Mansfield. Irving has the lightning bolt that Jackie will become a writer after he spots a woman reading Harold Robbins' "The Carpetbaggers." The movie depicts Susann as a loud, brazen, salty dreamer who could rip people but make them love her. Her cheesoid taste in prose and clothes is validated by her childish love of attention, her joy in brassy candor, and her putting a brave front on pain - breast cancer for years, and a son born retarded. The core problem is that Midler makes Susann a sweetie, a marshmallow with some crust. The love machine eats her up. Cast: Bette Midler, Nathan Lane, Stockard Channing, David Hyde Pierce, John Cleese. Running time: 1 hour, 45 minutes. (Elliott) Rated R. ★★

Gossip Girl

BY Coleen Christian

HOLLYWOOD WILL NEVER BE THE SAME...

Kathi Lee Gifford should absolutely know better.....which leaves Gossip Girl to believe she loves everything that's said about her....good, bad or horrible. Her latest blunder? Dragging six year old Cassidy down the catwalk for clothing designer Donald Deals. Deals, who doesn't even design children's clothing, was thrilled to have Cassidy as a model and shelled out $500 big ones to make a pint size dress for Kathi Lee's princess. Now tongues are wagging that Cassidy bore a striking resemblance to Jon Benet as she strutted the runway with her mom. Apparently at the ripe old age of six Cassidy has decided to be a model....and Kathi Lee finally has the role she's perfect for....stage mom.

Julia Roberts is keeping some awful company these days. Aaron Eckhart, who played the all time villian Chad in In The Company of Men, co-stars with America's sweet heart in the upcoming flick Erin Brockovich. Bad boy Aaron would have us believe he's squeaky clean in real life....yearning to settle down and have kids. But what about that Harley he just bought? Claims he's novice....and is even afraid to drive it to hog events for fear he just might cause more worried about what could happen to him instead of what could happen to the bikes).

Who's not on Friends these days? Superstar Bruce Willis joins Brad Pitt and Reese Whiterspoon on the list of film stars visiting the sitcom. Willis agreed to be written into the storyline after paling around with Matthew Perry on the set of The Whole Nine Yards.

Far-out Farrah Fawcett is a big favorite with fans....and if David Kelley has his way the 70's sex kitten will be back on the tube permanently. Kelley was so impressed with Fawcett's work on Ally McBeal he wants to give her her own series. But he's not straying far from Farrah's proven formula for success. Kelley envisions Farrah ( big stretch here) in a role similar to the one she played on Charlie's Angels. Word is Farrah is considering it.....leaving one to wonder just what she's considering....are we supposed to believe that there are that many offers pouring in from smash-hit creators like Kelley?

CYBER TIPP

INTERNET NEWS AND INFORMATION

10 tips to successful cyber-flirting

1. WOMEN WANT TO BE TREATED WELL

The same rules of gentlemanly conduct that apply in life, apply on the Net. Woman want to be treated well. Respect her and you'll be a winner. Offend her, and you're out of the game.

2. LOVERS COME AND GO — FRIENDS LAST FOREVER

Although there are some women who are looking for a casual one-net stand, most women want a Cyber-Seduction to grow out of a friendship. If you can create a comfortable & safe place, chances are she'll want to play more. Even the most sensuous encounters are still all about creating relationships. They may not be permanent, they may not have the deepest emotional intimacy, but the guidelines for good relating apply to Cyber- Love as well.

3. RECOGNIZE THE VARIOUS STAGES OF SEDUCTION

Different rules apply for each stage of seduction . Recognize what stage of the seduction you're in: First Stage: Making Contact. Second Stage: Flirting and Courtship. Third Stage: Cyber-Seduction. Success comes to the man who recognizes what stage he is in.

4. YES — THE FIRST STAGE OF SEDUCTION

The first stage is making contact and determining if the woman is interested in your attention. At this initial stage most woman are still in the no thank you mode. This is not the best time to start sending her direct, sexual private messages, because she is still in the no stage. Establish a friendly connection first. Make sure she really wants to play before you escalate the game.

Assuming you have determined that she is responding to you, the next step is establishing a connection that is personal to the two of you. The art of the first stage is knowing how to make it personal without making it too personal. It requires sensitivity to know where her boundaries are at each stage.

5. LET THE GAMES BEGIN! THE SECOND STAGE

The best flirtation is like a good game of tennis. Both players return volleys. If she is not responding at your pace, SLOW DOWN. There is no point in trying to 'ace' her at this stage in the game. Be interested in her, who she is, not what she is! Ask questions, but don't make her feel like she's the subject of a '60 Minutes' interview. Never ask questions about her body parts, or her dimensions unless she's willing to volunteer that level of information. Ask open-ended questions like how do you feel about....? what do you like best about...? — rather than closed questions like Do you like Classical music? Those kind of questions tend to lead to yes or no answers, perhaps bringing the conversation to a halt. Keep the game going. Always respond to her, never let a comment or question go by unanswered. If you don't have an answer, speak up (softly). Don't just be silent. Remember, she can't read your mind. It's easier to keep the connection going than it is to re-start it.

6. LAY YOUR CARDS ON THE TABLE

Be honest! If you don't look like Mel Gibson, why say you do? You might as well take the risk to find out if she is interested in who you really are. She will be very angry at you if she finds out later you have mislead her ABOUT ANYTHING.

Be truthful about your intentions with her at this stage. If you are not looking for a romance, don't pretend to be. If you have other important relationships on the net or in life, TELL HER NOW before the situation escalates, otherwise there are bound to be hurt feelings. Ask her the same questions about her love life and intentions. Reveal something about yourself FIRST. THEN ask her to do the same.

In the second stage, Be first to tell her how you feel. In the long run she'll respect and trust you more for being open and honest.

7. LET HER TAKE THE LEAD

As you move through the levels of the second stage , if possible, let her take the lead toward becoming more intimate. If she initiates deeper levels, you will know that this is what she truly desires, and it will allow her to feel more in control of the situation. If she feels in charge she's less likely to become afraid of more intensity.

If she is shy, you can still help her feel in control by inviting her rather than taking her down the path of Cyber-Seduction. Ask her: Tell me about what you're wearing? This is better than asking her, What are you wearing? (if you haven't reached this level of intimacy yet.)

8. STAGE THREE: HER SENSES MAY BE DIFFERENT FROM YOURS

If you've gotten to the cyber-seduction stage three, you may be speaking very directly about sex and sensuality. Remember, all of the above rules still apply, and a few more come into play. First, her sense of choice may be different from yours. You may want her to paint pictures for you. You may ask her to describe what she looks like, what she's wearing and other visual descriptions. This may do nothing for her. She may want to hear words that turn her on. Or she may want to feel through descriptions of sensations. She may initially prefer one modality, and then another as things heat up. Get to know yourself and your lady and you'll be able to play her like a fine violin.

Here's an example of how the different senses can be used. One simple act (escalating the action at a dinner table), can be handled in a multitude of ways:

Visual Sensation: ....I push away the dinner plates and lift you onto the table. I can see from the look in your eyes that you are mine. Your red lips part with longing...

Sound Sensation: ....I can almost hear you purr — I know I can't wait any longer, "You are mine' I whisper. Shoving away the dinner plates, I don't care who hears us now, "You are my most sinful dessert' I sigh....

Touch Sensation: ...I reach under the white linen table-cloth, my hand slides teasingly slowly up your trembling thigh. You let me gently part your legs as your moist heat attracts my fingers like a thousand invisible magnets...

9. A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME.....

....May not smell as sweet. What kind of words does she use to describe body parts or acts of love? Does she like poetic & colorful innuendo, or graphic dirty words and explicit descriptions? One false step in this department can cause weeks of delicate feelings to unravel in a moment. Find out what she likes before you find yourself typing away like a wild man in the heat of action.

Erotic and (porno) graphic are very opposing styles. The different impact of these two approaches is considerable. She may not respond to one, whereas she may be delighted by the other.

Here is an example of an erotic approach:

...my hands find their way to the source of your desire, awakening an almost forgotten longing....

Graphic approach: (....maybe I'll just let you imagine this one....!)

Don't assume you know her tastes — ask her. It may sound a little clinical, but that's where the great lovers are separated from the crowd. Get good at eliciting her love-strategy in a way that is fun, provocative and passionate.

10. BRINGING NET-FANTASIES TO LIFE

If you've been having a Cyber Love affair, you may be wondering about taking it to the next level of reality. Assuming that you are both single and available, you may be curious to speak on the phone or even meet in person. WARNING: Are you willing to let go of a fantasy in order to have a real life experience? If the answer is yes, and you are willing to accept any possible outcome, then you know what you need to do next. Call her! If it goes well, get on an airplane!!!

But be honest with yourself. Are you ready to have your life (which you have some control over as long as you are at the keyboard) disrupted? Are you ready, willing and able to face the fact that the goddess you have been imagining and sweet chatting is different from a living, breathing, real woman? Real women have real needs, hopes and dreams. But if you're ready for reality...

Rant n' Rave
by Jessica Steele

Oh, the weather outside maybe frightful but the musical diversions are so delightful...

First off, I'd like to say "Congrats!" to area favorites Strangers With Candy. SWC was just recently named 'The Ultimate Cover Band' by MTV. I happened to catch the performance and would just like to add that it was a well-deserved victory.

For those of you still hoping to attract notice, haul yourselves down to Old Bridge and enter The Birch Hill Talent Search. The competition begins on May 4th and the cache of prizes are enough to make make any struggling musician drool in anticipation.For further info, contact Rockhouse Productions: 732-974-1989.

They say all good things must come to an end. Unfortunately, the members of KISS agreed with that notion when they decided to announce their farewell tour. Kicking off on 3/11 in Arizona, the fab four will give it one more go-round before packing it in.Opening acts slated are Ted 'we've just killed some small animals, it's time for a beer' Nugent & Skid Row (sans Sebastian Bach). To tide the fans over till they come to your town, KISS ALIVE IV will be released soon. The current in-store date is March 28.

1981...Can any of us remember back that far? It was in that year that we were introduced to animated characters who swore, fornicated, and indulged in all kinds of unseemly behavior. YES! I'm talking about that cult classic HEAVY METAL. Well, read on, devoted followers because the sequel, HEAVY METAL 2000, is due out this summer. However, that's where any similarity between the original and the current version end. The latest installment will be based on the misadventures of a comely young woman by the name of Julie, (the protagonist being based on a former Penthouse Pet Of The Year). In a word, PUH-LEEZE!!! On the plus side, the film's soundtrack will include artists such as Billy Idol, MachineHead, Monster Magnet and Pantera.It's due out by 4/18.

Just one quick question - Am I the only one wishing that certain people would PLEASE make up their friggin' mind? Guitarist Paul Cook was out on tour with Anthrax just a short while ago when he decided to ditch 'em and hit the trail with Sebastian Bach and Co. Now, Anthrax has reportedly replaced Cook with none other than Dave "The Snake" Sabo, Mr. Bach's former bandmate. Meanwhile, Skid Row is also scheduled for the Kiss tour!? I can't help but wonder how these guys intend to juggle all their commitments at once. Your guess is as good as mine!

Anyone who would like to take some of the guesswork out of rock 'n roll should click on Launch.com this Thursday 2/24 at 8:30 pm ET. Tommy Lee and his new band, Methods of Mayhem, will be online for a live chat. And please guys, no cheesy questions regarding the former (or is it current again?) Mrs. Pamela Lee.

Well, I'm done; stick a fork in me. Keep your collective chins up and I'll catch ya next week.

MACY GRAY

By George Varga

New R&B sensation Macy Gray doesn't take anything for granted, as befits a gifted young artist whose life and music are a fascinating jumble of contradictions and juxtapositions.

"I want to top myself with every record," declared the street-wise, college-educated singer, songwriter and leader of an 11-piece band. "I don't want to be like a cheesy pop star."

Happily, she is anything but that.

Gray, who turned 30 in September, is a single mother of three children, ages 2 to 5. Born and raised in Ohio, this Los Angeles-based maverick is responsible for one of 1999's most potent debut albums, "On How Life Is," which earned her two Grammy Award nominations. Its release followed nearly a decade of bad breaks while she struggled to get a record deal and witnessed her first major-label deal (and an unreleased 1995 album) go up in smoke.

"Things come a lot easier to you when you really know what you're doing," Gray said. "Once you sort of become an expert at what you do, things fall in place for you. And who you work with makes all the difference in the world."

"On How Life Is" was produced by Fiona Apple/Wallflowers' manager Andrew Slater, who is also Gray's manager and the producer of Apple's acclaimed debut album. An unusually accomplished and distinctive maiden effort, Gray's album was released last summer to a still-rising chorus of critical praise.

In December, London's prestigious Time Out magazine declared Gray, a former piano student and erstwhile jazz singer, "the voice of the year." Her album is currently ranked No. 6 on the English charts, where it's outselling current releases by Cher, Will Smith and other big-name acts. It has fared less well on the U.S. charts, thus far rising no higher than No. 97. But her recent Grammy nominations for Best New Artist and Best Female R&B Vocal Performance (for the uplifting "Do Something") should give her an overdue boost.

Gray's 10-song album showcases her supple, jazz-inspired vocal phrasing and wonderfully raspy, high-pitched voice, which suggests an unlikely cross between jazz legend Billie Holiday, Tina Turner and TV's Marge Simpson on a bender. Her well-crafted songs are a potent blend of hip-hop smarts, old-school R&B chops and pop-soul pizazz, with light touches of reggae, Latin and rock.

"We didn't try to do anything specific," said Gray, who readily acknowledges her love of classic R&B from the 1960s and '70s.

"That's what I grew up on, but it's not something we consciously tried to (emulate). We didn't try to make a nostalgic 'retro' record. In fact, my producer told me that was the last thing he wanted me to do. Even the hip-hop elements just came in there naturally. We didn't try to do anything with a specific style or period in mind."WITH HEART AND SOUL

By any name, Gray's music intoxicates with its deft combination of groove and heart, sultry allure and rough-edged charm. What results is hard to resist, at least for substance-starved listeners numbed by the glut of formulaic teen-pop clones and paint-by-numbers rappers now dominating the national sales charts and radio airwaves.

"I would never want to do something typical," affirmed Gray (real name: Natalie McIntyre).

"You can say anything on a record, it's just the way you say it that people are attracted to. You can talk about anything you want, and that's my thing. I wouldn't want to be generic, or say 'I love you' in my songs."

In fact, love won, lost and longed for are frequent topics in Gray's lyrics. But she avoids trite sentiments, and she is unafraid to reveal herself, be it in song or in a phone interview.

(Asked how well she balanced being a performer and a mother of three, Gray softly replied: "It's extremely hard for me. I'm still working on it.")

Simultaneously vulnerable and self-affirming, her best work has a vivid, almost cinematic quality. She attributes much of this to her studies at the prestigious USC film school.

"It definitely influenced my lyric-writing style. Because in film school, everything is about the story, and it has to have structure - a beginning, a middle and an end," Gray said, speaking from her Los Angeles home.

But her often striking musical vignettes are less a product of her imagination than of personal experience. And some of those experiences were clearly less than pleasant.

Witness "Still," one of her album's standout songs. A gripping tale of an abusive relationship, it begins:

In my last years with him, there were bruises on my face / In my dawn and new day, I finally got away / But my head's all messed up and he knows just what to say / No more dawn and new days, I'm goin' back to stay....

"It's all pretty autobiographical," Gray said matter-of-factly. "You have to write what you know, and the only thing I knew to write about was what I'd been through. It was about relating stuff that happened to me.

"It wasn't like I thought: 'I'm going to try to say this or that.' It was only after I wrote 'Still' - and people listened to it and told me what it meant to them - that I realized it was pretty deep. When people focus on my lyrics, who I am comes across."WHAT SHE BELIEVES Indeed. In an era dominated by synthetic singers with big, character-free voices and little depth or emotion, Gray is a welcome anomaly.

Her scratchy, proudly gruff singing may lack polish, and her range is not especially broad, but she knows all about nuance and dynamic shading. And she leaves no doubt that she's drawing from, and conveying, genuine emotion, rather than erupting in the empty histrionics that are sadly de rigeur in this age of Mariah and Celine.

"I think you have to sing about what is real," Gray said. "Because, to me, the artists that always stick out and stay around are the ones you believe. When they sing it, you believe it, and you trust them. If you're thinking about your life when you sing, that comes across.

"Billie Holiday didn't have a huge range, but you could tell she was connecting with every note and lyric - she was right there. She had an incredible voice, but it wasn't a controlled, polished voice. Her voice was pretty small - she didn't go way up or way down - but she had a style. And it was so important to her that people would understand her. Her diction was perfect. That's what affected me most about her, that you could take what you had and do it, and stand out and be yourself."

In addition to jazz vocal icon Holiday, Gray credits Stevie Wonder, Sly Stone and Prince as some of her biggest influences. She also gives props to such disparate artists as Louis Armstrong, Branford Marsalis and Michael Franks.

Asked to name some of her all-time favorite albums, Gray cited Holiday's "The Decca Recordings," Prince's "Sign O' the Times," Run-D.M.C.'s self-titled 1984 debut, Stevie Wonder's "Talking Book" and "Songs in the Key of Life," and Sly & The Family Stone's "There's a Riot Going On" and "Fresh."

"They all have an energy," she said of her choices.

"You can tell they were all recorded at an important time of their careers, when they were hungry and had a lot to say. You could do a polka record, and if you're telling the truth and have something to say, people will latch on to it. You can't really touch music, but you feel it. As long as it has an energy coming out of it, it works, and all those records had that."

Gray may never equal the work of her idols. But it won't be for a lack of effort - or parental support.

"My father is my biggest hero, because he's the purest person I know," she said. "And when I was growing up, my mother often told me: 'You can do anything. You're not limited because you're black or a woman. You can do whatever you want.' In my mind, I know there's a lot I can't do yet. But I will. I will."

Hades

By Steve Whitlin

Their upside is The Downside

Home-grown speed metal demon Hades is back, continuing the unlikely resurgence that began with last year's "SaviorSelf' record. The band's new album, the "The Downside" (its second for Metal Blade Records), is now in stores. You can see Hades perform its new material live on March 4 at The Wreck Room, 551 Main Ave., Wallington. Opening bands are Demonspeed and Eye of the Storm and doors open at 8PM. Call (973) 471-8405 for more information. Hades also performs March 11 at the two-day March Metal Meltdown, at the South Jersey Expo Center in Pennsauken. More than 100 bands are scheduled to play on March 10-11, and tickets are available through TicketMaster. For more information, check out www.metalfest.com.

On the eve of its release, Hades vocalist Alan Tecchio and guitarists Dan Lorenzo and Ed Fuhrman discussed "The Downside" and Hades' immediate future.

What are your feelings now that "The Downside" is done, and what makes it different from your previous release, "SaviorSelf"?

Ed Fuhrman: It's definitely the best Hades album so far. There are a lot of differences on this album. There was a lot more time spent in the writing process compared to the last record, and you can hear the difference. We spent a month recording and mixing "The Downside" [as opposed to six days on "SaviorSelf']. Our drummer Dave (Lescinsky) was a lot more comfortable. He was only in the band for two months when we did "SaviorSelf." This time he really went off and did a much better job on the drumming.

Dan Lorenzo: The mindset was so different. Alan and I wrote "SaviorSelf" [without a record deal], hoping we could license it to someone in Germany. Then Metal Blade came into the picture. This was a different perspective, knowing that we had a deal while writing the record.

Alan Tecchio: We really rushed "SaviorSelf." With this record we had time to sit down and fine-tune the songs. As a result of having time and our song writing experience, we've finally been able to write really solid songs. I think "The Downside" is full of [solid songs]. There aren't many passages you'll want to skip.

Scott LePage played bass on "SaviorSelf," but on "The Downside" he only plays on two tracks. Dan plays bass on the majority of tracks, with D.D. Verni of Overkill and Ed also contributing. What happened to Scott, and who will play bass at your shows?

DL: Scott lives in Texas and we can't rehearse with him. It gets depressing after a while when you don't have a bass part because the bass can really change the song. I always felt like I could write good bass lines in my head, but I didn't know if I could actually play them on a record. Ed came up to me the first day of recording and said, the engineer says if you don't play good bass he's going to hire a jazz guy to play on the record. I was like, 'no jazz guy is playing on my record!'

EF: Our engineer was surprised at how well Dan did on bass.

DL: Kevin Bolembach of Non-Fiction will play bass at the Wreck Room and MetalFest. After that, it's still up in the air. Our old bassist Jim Schulman is going to join us for a few songs at The Wreck Room.

You all have full-time jobs, which can make touring difficult. Will you be touring more for "The Downside" than you did for "SaviorSelf"?

AT: Yes. Not extended tours, but we will do more than we did last year. We'll play places like Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, and Detroit. Wherever we can get to on weekends and drive back in time for work on Monday.

DL: We're also playing European festivals in August. We're lucky because the festivals fall at a time when we don't have to work. We're playing the Wacken Festival in Germany and then flying right to Belgium for another festival.

Hades now has a much-needed official WebSite, www.hadesusa.com. Why did you finally decide to put up a site now?

AT: We decided to do it when we started to do the re-releases [of the old albums]. A great way to spread the word is through the Internet. We hired Craig Marcus, who did the Steppin' Out WebSite. We gave him the raw materials of what we wanted and he came up with the look for the site. He did a great job. We've got a lot of hits and people writing in saying it looks cool.

Southern Shift The Lifeline of Southern Rock

Picture this - it's 9pm on a Saturday night.The air is thick with smoke and expectation. The denim-clad patrons mill about, waiting for the show to start. Old friends meet up and catch up while 1st-timers to the Southern Shift experience (like myself) search aimlessly for a spot amongst the standing-room only crowd.

Hearing the first notes of Lynyrd Skynyrd's "Gimme Back My Bullets" , some of the audience might start humming along before realizing that the authentically clean sound is NOT coming from the jukebox but from the general direction of the stage.

For the past 13 years, Southern Shift has been bringing their love of vintage country rock to audiences of all ages. With a current mailing list of over 1000 devoted fans, S.S. band members Leo Strelecki (lead vocals), Daniel Mark Papa (guitar & vocals), John Henderson (bass & vocals), Joe Plum (guitar & vocals) and Karl Weber (drums) do their best to copy their musical heroes note for note. "I like to think of us as surgeons with a scalpel." explains guitarist Danny. "We look deep into the music and try to match exactly what was being done when the song was first written."

And that they do... and then some. Calling on the music of ZZ Top,Allman Bros., Blackfoot, and The Outlaws (to name but a few), these five guys had The Fireside Pub in Denville,NJ packed to the rafters recently. With their varied repertoire, they were full of surprises as the night went on."Our current line-up is better than ever." boasts vocalist Leo."We're a live band, not recording artists. We're here to have a good time right along with everyone else!".

Now, I know what you're thinking, you've-seen-one-cover-band-you've-seen-'em-all!'. Right? Wrong! Mind-blowing guitars combined with dead-on accurate vocals and a solid rhythm section make this a show not to be missed.

So, ready to see for yourself what all the fuss is about? That shouldn't be too hard. The band plays endlessly throughout the state. Click onto www.southernshift.com for the latest scheduled club dates and news. A great time is sure to be had by all. Outrageous tunes for everyone with even a little eye-candy thrown in for the ladies. Like the song says, "Who could ask for anything more?".

"MARCH TO FUZZ" MUDHONEY

WORLD OF MUSIC

Mudhoney was crucial to grunge growth ...

SUB POP

Nowadays thoughts of Seattle conjure up images of round-cheeked, twentysomething computer-geek millionaires outfitted in khakis tooling about town in enormous four-wheel-drive vehicles. It's hard to imagine that just a decade ago, Seattle meant flannel shirts, slackers and, significantly, the musical phenomenon known as grunge. Mudhoney, the self-termed grandfathers of grunge, were probably the most influential group of that time. Too bad they never quite got the airplay of Nirvana, Pearl Jam or Soundgarden. For those of you who missed them the first time, this double CD of greatest hits and lesser-known B-sides shows what all that fuss was about.

Ten years later, Mudhoney's music is a fresh sounding combination of rock and punk. The songs on the first disc tend to fluctuate between two standards. There's the slow, almost-plodding bass sound in combination with a Hendrix-style feedback on lead guitar you'll find in songs such as "Sweet Young Thing Ain't Sweet No More." This is the more Soundgarden-esque Seattle melancholia sound. And just when you think you can't take it anymore, songs like "Into the Drink" kick in with a light-hearted jump-up-and-down rhythm and a one-two drum beat that recall Nirvana (who, according to the liner notes, used to pay Mudhoney for the privilege of opening their van door). The first disc fluctuates between these sounds, like the way the sun sporadically appears in the gray Seattle sky.

The second disc has a rougher, more raw sound. The band covers songs from The Adolescents, Black Flag. And the take on Elvis Costello's "Pump it Up" sounds more inventive then the original.

Even if you have the entire Mudhoney discography you should get "March to Fuzz" for band-members Mark Arm's and Steve Turner's commentary in the liner notes. They have a little story for just about every tune on the album. You'll find out why they'll never get asked to be on a soundtrack again, how they've never really considered tuning their instruments, and why so many Mudhoney songs include the word "fuzz." "I love the word 'fuzz,' " says Turner Brilliant.

Lit

Hooks up with Pamela Anderson Lee

Pamela Anderson Lee and her "V.I.P." posse will risk their lives protecting rock act Lit in an upcoming episode of the syndicated TV series.

According to one of the show's writers, that protection won't work out too well, however. The show will find fans pawing at Lit until one makes off with frontman A. Jay Popoff's prized belt buckle. Pamela's character then helps Popoff replace it with one formerly owned by Elvis Presley. As luck and plot twists have it, a missing cryptographic key used to decipher computer transactions has been hidden inside the obnoxious accessory, and one of the band members gets kidnapped by villains in pursuit of the key.

The band will shoot its part in mid-December, and performance footage from the band's stint on the recent Campus Invasion tour may also be incorporated into the show. On Campus Invasion, the band shot performance footage for its next video, "Miserable," as well.

If available, Tommy Lee may also appear as a homeless man who gets tapped to fill in for the missing bandmember as the group still has to make it to their concert on time.

Lit's stint on "V.I.P." is slated to air during February sweeps.

Bree Sharp has a crush

Bree Sharp's premiere single "David Duchovny" is an ode to the famed X-Files star, on whom Sharp has long nourished a crush. The song (with its hook-filled and already infamous tag line, 'David Duchovny/Why won't you love me?') earned her attention even before its release as a single. The demo of Bree's song made its way to David Duchovny. Bree recounts, "When they told me that he liked it, I didn't believe it. When I found out it was real, I think I must have laughed for five minutes straight, I was so excited."

"A Cheap And Evil Girl", the galvanizing debut CD from the 23 year old singer-songwriter Bree Sharp is now available.

Bree Sharp will perfrom a free concert @ Sam Goody (West Village, NYC) March 7th at 7:30 pm

RE-LIVE THE TERROR!

Jessica's 15th entry (2/15/00)

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY!!!! I love, love, love valentine's day especially when you have a sweethearts like all of you to share it with. Not to mention my one true sweetie as well.

Tonight is Making of thy Video...I hope all of you like the video! I am really excited and nervous about it! Nick is actually here with me and he says Happy Valentine's Day to everyone!

I wanted to catch everyone up on the latest...I am getting ready to leave for Japan in a couple of days...I am so excited about going to Japan. I have always wanted to go there. I am sure I will be sick of rice by the time I return to the states because you know me andmy picky eating habits but I am looking forward to meeting the new fans and experiencing the different culture.

Another person was talking about Christian music verses pop music, well I have already been down that road and I feel I have a much more effective place in the pop world than I ever did in the christian music market. I have not changed my values and morals, as a matter of fact, they have become stronger! I think it is really sad when the people that usually say these things are the christians who claim to be "NON-JUDGEMENTAL" yet they are the biggest judges and this is why christianity gets such a bad name. The bible says "the way we judge others is the way God will judge us"...makes you think, huh? I believe if we put out good thoughts and vibes, it will return to you!

Now, about Nick...thanks for all the Valentine's and well wishers...I am sure there are some of you out there who think yuk!!!! But we took that chance when we let the world know we were dating...I believe in honesty and I appreciate all of you who have been there for us!

Love and Hugs to All, Jessica

Quote of the Week:

"They announced the Oscar nominations here in Hollywood. 'American Beauty' got eight nominations, including Best Actor for Kevin Spacey. When he heard about it he was so surprised he almost fell out of his closet."

...Bill Maher

Various Artists
The Beach Motion Picture Soundtrack

One of the best things about Danny Boyle movies—and in the case of A Life Less Ordinary, it is the best thing—is that the guy has great taste in music. Whereas Trainspotting's dark subject matter allowed him to indulge in some beautifully idiosyncratic musical choices, the Leo factor of this movie may be the reason the disc contains one or two minor concessions to popular taste. That said, this soundtrack—which features new music from Underworld, New Order and chartmakers like All Saints and Sugar Ray, as well as good cuts from Moby and Blur—is far better than your average soundtrack. Like a mix tape made by a much cooler friend, this is both dark and danceable, so whatever your mood it's a fine choice. B+

This Week's Crossword Solution

Steppin' Out Under the Stars

FOR YOUR UP-TO-THE-MINUTE HOROSCOPE
CALL 1-900-737-4677 ONLY 99¢ PER MINUTE

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) People seem to be dragging their feet in making a decision involving a loan, a job, a house or another current event in your life. Be patient.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Someone may call you stubborn, but your bullish determination to stick with your instinct is right on the mark. Stick with your decision.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Get up. Get out. Get going. This is the time you've been waiting for to put some of your plans in motion. Positive action also benefits your sometimes-neglected relationships with family and friends.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A piece of property becomes the center of a distressing dispute with a loved one. An outsider offers advice on a compromise that could prevent a painful breakup. Be flexible in making your decision.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You might have to choose between repaying a loan that's long-overdue or losing a friend who's been close to you for many years. Someone else is watching to see what you decide to do.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A longtime relationship will wind up on the endangered species list unless you're willing to work hard to save it. Those who insist it's not worth your time have their own agendas in mind.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A change in your work status leaves you feeling unappreciated. Your inclination is to exit rather than accept it. But it would be wiser to see how things develop before taking drastic action.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Stop hibernating and get out more if you hope to shed those late-winter blues. Being with people you like brings light and warmth back into your life.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Playing games with someone else's emotions isn't appreciated. What you see as playful teasing is perceived as painful evasion.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Someone brings painful reminders of a tragic loss. It'll be difficult, but you need to face him to help yourself come to terms with still-unresolved questions about the past.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) The time is favorable for doing things that you've put off for too long. A message carries the promise of new or renewed romance. A health report brings good news about a loved one.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) There's a tendency to spread yourself too thin when trying to meet all the demands on your good nature. Focus on a few worthy efforts instead of dissipating your energy on trying to please everyone.

YOU BORN THIS WEEK: Your loving nature often impels you to look out for others before you consider your own needs. You have a gift for teaching and a deep appreciation of nature. You love to garden, even if space limits you to tending plants on a window ledge.
